

And would you fain the reason know? Philip Rosseter

And would you fain the rea- son know Why my sad eyes so
 And will you ask why pale I look? 'Tis not with por- ing Do not de- mand why I am mute. Love's si- lence doth all Do not ad- mire why I ad- mire. My fe- ver is no If why I love you should see cause, Love should have form like No fault up- on my love es- py, For you per- ceive not Then let my suf- france be mine own, Suf- fic- eth it these

The musical score for the first system consists of a vocal line in G major and common time, a bass line, and a lute tablature line. The tablature uses letters 'a', 'b', 'c', 'd', 'e', 'f', 'g' on a six-line staff to represent fret positions.

5

oft- en flow? My heart ebbs joy when on my book. My mis- tress' cheek my speech con- fute. They set the note, then o- ther's fire, Each se- v'ral heart hath o- ther laws. But Fan- cy pleads not with my eye; My pal- ate to your rea- sons shown. Rea- son and Love are

The musical score for the second system continues with a vocal line, a bass line, and a lute tablature line. It includes a repeat sign with a first ending bracket over the final two measures of the system.

they do so And loves the moon by blood hath took, For her mine own hath tune the lute; Hearts frame their thoughts, then his de- sire, Else proof is false, and by the clause, 'Tis as the sea still taste may lie, Yet please it- self de-ev- er known To fight till both be whom they go, my whom they go. me for- sook, my me for- sook.

 tongues their suit, they tongues their suit.
 truth a liar, each truth a liar. vex'd with flaws, but vex'd with flaws. li- cious- ly, my li- cious- ly. ov- er- thrown, rea- ov- er- thrown.