

7. Down, down, proud mind

William Corkine

1) 5

Down, down, proud mind; thou soaring far a-This fall from pride my rising is from Stoop, stoop, proud heart, and mounting hopes, down, bove thy might. A- spir- ing heart, wilt grief's great deep that bot- tom wants, up down, de- scend. Rise, spleen, and burst; hence, thou not cease to breed my woe? High to the top of hap- py bliss. In joys, for grief must now as- scend. My

10

15

1) Note one whole note higher in orig.

thoughts meet with dis- dain; peace and Love peace and rest I shall se- cure-stars con- spire my spoil, which is ef-

a r e f h r e f a r a a a

(b) fight. Peace thou hast won the field, and sleep, where nei- die, ther yet scorn, dis- dain, Love's fect- ed. I die, yet live in death, of b b f g a a a r e f d a r a g r

(b)

Love shall hence in bon- dage go. tor- ment, grief, or an- guish is.
 love and life (at once) re- ject- ed.

r a a b a e f e a d r d f r a

1)

1) Note dotted in orig.